REVIEW: STOEBER GARAGE TOUR

Rick Stoeber's shop is more than just a 'restoration and repair' shop. Rick Stoeber is a craftsman of his trade. Rick's shop is filled with a bunch of unique, one-of-a-kind cars which Rick is doing his magic on.

In the case of the Viking – one of the cars he is currently working on – Rick is transforming blueprint sketches from the designers to an original masterpiece of engineering. It's outcome is amazing! If you have never been, you need to make it out to a Garage Tour hosted by Rick soon!

What do you do on a lazy, warm spring day? Do what a bunch of our members do – sit around and have a great time, like here at the Manasquan Car Show on Apr. 29. - Photo by Jack Torres

FROM THE GAVEL

If April showers bring May flowers, what does May bring? I would have to say rainouts and car show cancellations, unfortunately! Nature has a rejuvenation process which (in the form of rain) brings life to almost everything.

In the months of April and May, rain is a very common occurrence. Sadly, for us – the antique and classic car enthusiasts – we suffer very often as a result. Due to the rain, it forces the cancellations of planned car-related events, parades, and shows.

That same precious rain that brings life to every living being halts the car enthusiast from being part of any event in the rain. The time we spend cleaning, waxing, and preparing our cars goes to waste in just one rainfall. Plus, let's be serious... who wants to be stuck out in the rain anyway?

That same rain which helps beautiful flowers grow also speeds up the aging process of the steel and some of the metals on our cars. Even though car manufacturers do everything possible to prevent corrosion in the manufacturing process, water is the 'X factor' that destroys and increases the rust in cars today. Salt water increases said destruction 100 times faster.

So, next time there is a car event cancellation, just remember it is done with you and your car in mind. We want to prevent damage to your beautiful cars that the rain could cause.

Rest assured that our events list is packed full of fun dates where you can showcase all of the hard work you've put into your vehicle. We have a bunch of parades, car shows, and even garage tours on the radar which we'll continue to share with all of you.

We too are getting our season under way. Scheduling and planning events at this early juncture will insure that we have a fruitful and enjoyable season ahead. Preparing our cars for the long journey will also allow us to have a worry-free season ahead and a more fun time cruising with our honeys by our sides.

I wish everyone a safe, enjoyable, and fun-filled 2017 season. I will be looking forward to seeing you at some of our events!

Wishing you endless miles and memories,
